

Law would change BAC board elections

By Jack C. Ventimiglia

Executive editor
GRANITE CITY — A proposed overhaul of community college elections would likely increase Madison County's representation on the Belleville Area College Board. Submitted Friday by state Rep. Sam Wolf, D-Granite City, House Bill 143 would let districts replace at-large elections with elections from specific areas.

"WHEN Madison County contributes as much to the district as it does and there's no one from the county elected to the board, then there's something wrong with the system," Wolf said Friday.

Madison County paid 33 percent of the $3.6 million in taxes the district collected from counties in 1986, compared to 48 percent paid by St. Clair County, but Madison County lost its board representative in November 1985, leaving St. Clair County residents in total control of the eight-county district.

SOMETHING must be done to stop the inequity on the BAC Board of Trustees and Wolf's proposal is the answer, said Avery Schermer, a former board member. Schermer, from Granite City, said he didn't have a prayer in the last BAC board election.

"They overwhelmed me in St. Clair County," Schermer said. "This is craziness not to have representation throughout the district," he said. "This is craziness to have Belleville people running the district. This district is more than Belleville — much more."

AFTER BOARD MEMBER Pat Bartoskas resigned, Leo Konzen of Granite City was appointed to the board in June 1986, giving Madison County one representative on the seven-member board. Konzen

Election proposal outlined

Legislation proposed Friday by state Rep. Sam Wolf, D-Granite City, would change how trustees are elected to the Belleville Area College Board of Trustees.

House Bill 143 would let boards divide districts into segments that are "compact, contiguous and substantially equal in population." If a board rejects the idea, 500 district voters could force a referendum on the issue.

"I would suspect this board favors Wolf's proposal. Though all board members are concerned about the Granite City and Red Bud campuses, Konzen said, the board members know the Belleville campus best.

would probably refer it to a referendum," said Leo Konzen, Granite City, a member of the Belleville Area College Board of Trustees.

The Illinois School Code provides for high school districts to elect representatives from zones, which Wolf said provides a precedent for his legislation. "I think it's got a good chance," Wolf said. "I don't see why it shouldn't pass."

"Granite City Campus is new to the system," he said. "It has to be integrated into their (other board members) thinking. I think they're trying, but they're more accustomed to the concerns in Belleville."

SCHERMER'S CRITICISM is harsher.

"The progress of this college died in the last election," he said. "Things have gone to hell in a handbasket."

He cited the life-safety tax issue as an example, saying money for GCC rooftop work was needed, but wasn't approved by the Dec. 31 deadline. The board is now considering issuing general obligation bonds for the work, which would cost the district $90,000 more than anticipated.

Frances Braswell, Robert Dintelmann, Curt Eckert and Elizabeth Jenner, all trustees elected from St. Clair County, were receptive to Wolf's proposal.

"THE WAY it is now," Eckert said, "you can get a minority group, get out and work hard and elect a majority to the board. I don't feel that's fair to everyone in the district."

"I can certainly see the validity of it," Jenner said. "I think it does have merit."

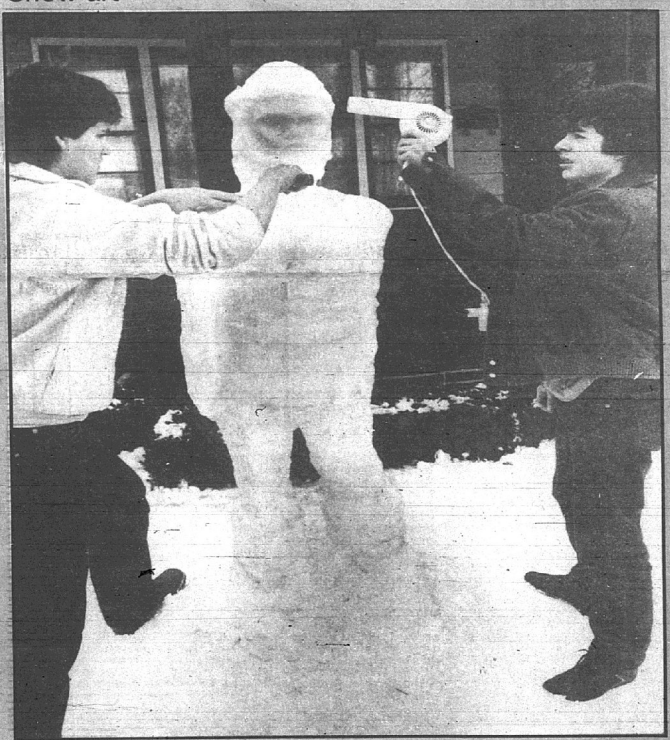

Wolf said he does not mean to be critical of board members, only the method of election, but he expects some trustees will oppose his bill.

THE MEASURE has a good chance, he said, but added, "If we don't pass this bill, I think it will have the effect of shaking them up down in Belleville and saying, 'Hey, we're not going to take this anymore.' If it just does that, it will have served its purpose."

Wolf wants the bill to be more than a warning, however. He will seek co-sponsors this week.

The Illinois Community College Board director, Dave Pierce, and the executive director of the Illinois Trustees Association, Gary Davis, said Friday their organizations have not had time to study the issue or to take a position.

GCC repairs still alive

By Dave Gosnell

Staff writer

RED BUD — The Belleville Area College administration was authorized by the college's board last week to draw up a proposal to issue bonds for repairs at the Granite City Campus.

The proposal would issue bonds to fund a $466,000 GCC rooftop heating and cooling project and also would pay for repairs to BAC's welding lab, which has poor ventilation.

IT IS THE SECOND try by the board to pay for the projects, which received board support last fall. In December, the board voted 2-2, defeating a proposal for a tax increase utilizing the state's Life Safety Act, which gives school districts the option, without a referendum, of raising the tax rate up to 5 cents per $100 assessed valuation for state-approved projects. Under the act, districts can also raise up to $1.5 million through bond issues.

If the board approves the proposal next month, the $811,670 bond issue will cost taxpayers about $90,000 more than if the board had chosen the straight tax levy proposal, according to estimates prepared by Larry Schmalenberger, BAC's vice chancellor for administrative services.

Bonds cost more than direct levies because interest is charged and there are more administrative costs. THREE BOARD MEMBERS absented from the December meeting, Curt Eckert, Frances Braswell and Wayne Reynolds, voted Wednesday for drawing up the proposal. Members Leo Konzen and Robert Dintelmann voted for both proposals.

Two board members voting against the December proposal.

"I'm certainly happy we'll be able to take care of needed repairs here (at GCC)," Bruce Wissore said.

Larry Reinneck and Elizabeth Jenner, voted for presenting the bond proposal next month. But Reinneck, who said last month he wanted to delete the GCC request from a tax proposal, said he had not changed his position.

He said he wanted the issue brought up next month in light of a financial report presented by BAC Chancellor Bruce Wissore.

WISSORE SAID if the district used the college's contingency fund for the projects, the fund would have been out of money.

"If they hadn't done those bonds, they would have completely died in the fund balance. It would have left us no ability to come up with money for any (extra) expenses at GCC and Redbud (Campus) ... that may have come up," Wissore said.

The fund has a balance of about $2 million, but the district will have $1,183,000 imbalance this year and the fund is used to balance BAC's budget each year, Wissore said.

The board's options on Wednesday were: to cancel the projects, to use the contingency fund or to consider a bond issue.

The tax levy measure could not be considered again because the Illinois Community College Board authorized the tax only if it passed by the end of 1986.

Wissore said he was pleased with the unanimous vote and the lack of negative board comment about funding the projects.

"ALL of the board members went for this. I think the 7-0 vote was significant," he said.

"I'm certainly happy we will be able to take care of needed repairs here," Wissore said, from his GCC office.

The bond issue would be paid over two years if the board accepts the proposal.

Schmalenberger had not yet estimated how much of a tax increase would be needed to pay for the repairs.

The GCC project will repair or replace 24 rooftop heating and cooling units on the college's building, which is located at Illinois 209 (Nameeki Road extension) and Maryville Road in Granite City.

DUI reduced

A drunken driving charge against William D. Allen, 23, of 2523 Delmar Ave., was reduced in St. Clair County to reckless driving.

Allen is the son of Dick Allen, Madison County State's Attorney. William Allen reportedly registered 0.17 percent on a breath test. The intoxication level is 0.1.

William Allen reportedly wanted to avoid a drunken driving record because he plans to join a military reserve unit, according to a published report.

He pleaded guilty to reckless driving and speeding. He was placed under court supervision for a year and fined $196.

The case was heard by Associate Judge James Donovan. The judge said he did not know the defendant was Dick Allen's son until after the sentence.

Government's investigator tackles tough jobs in Washington, D.C.

By Bill Bagby

WASHINGTON D.C. — Investigating organized crime, labor racketeering and governmental affairs is all in a days work for David Williams.

Williams, 40, formerly of Granite City, is the director of a new investigative unit for the U.S. General Accounting Office. The unit supplements auditing services the office provides for the U.S. Congress, Williams said.

THE TEN-MEMBER unit, established by Congress, investigates governmental employees or contractors who are in violation of government laws or regulations, Williams said.

The unit was formed after U.S. Rep. Jack Brooks, R-Tex., said that the GAO seemed reluctant to conduct investigations, according to published sources.

Unit agents, Williams said, were chosen from the FBI, Secret Service, Internal Revenue Service and the Inspector General's office, and have a background in major case work.

THE UNIT, Williams said, started investigations immediately after being formed in October.

"The work's been very heavy," he said.

Before his appointment as unit director, Williams served as unit director of field operations in the office of labor racketeering for the U.S. Department of Labor's Office of Inspector General. During this time,

Williams was involved in the investigation of Teamsters' President Jackie Presser.

Williams was also involved in criminal investigations with the President's commission on organized crime and was a member of the Secret Service.

A graduate of Granite City High School, Williams attended SIUE and the University of Illinois. He has taught at the FBI academy in Quantico, Va., and at the Canadian Police College in Ottawa.

Williams said he became interested in investigations while serving in Army intelligence.

HIS MOTHER, Ernel Williams of Granite City, said David didn't show much interest in investigative work until he was older.

"He didn't seem to learn that way," she said. "He seems to like it."

There's some personal risk involved in his job, Williams said.

IT'S JUST part of the profession, he said.

"He just laughs at it," Ernel said.

"He doesn't realize it's dangerous. David's family doesn't worry about the dangers, Ernel said, due to their deep religious convictions.

David was formerly an associate pastor and youth minister of the First Assembly of God Church in Granite City, she said.

ERNEI SAID she prayed a lot for David during the Teamsters investigation.

"God is bigger than any of those gangsters," she said.

Madison restaurant expands

By Donna Kimbro
Staff writer

MADISON — A bigger, brighter Brenda's Trojan Restaurant adds a new dimension to the offerings of restaurateur Brenda Jordan.

"She has owned and operated the restaurant at 411 Madison Ave. since July 1979. It was formerly known as the Trojan Restaurant."

When she opened her dining establishment, it was smaller and she and her children served up their homestyle food to a growing number of patrons.

Back then, her daughter, Rhonda, was 12 and started working as a waitress. Brenda's son, Jerry, then 14, washed dishes. Brenda plunged into cooking with a zestful attitude, but little knowledge of preparing food for a large number of people and without a collection of special recipes.

"THE ONLY RECIPE I had, one that I had valued through the years, was one for chicken and dumplings that was given to me by my aunt. I still use the precise measurements for all the ingredients," Jordan said.

"Other recipes, such as soups and gravies and entrees for luncheon and dinner menus, came by trial and error."

"I really did very well as a cook, but as the business grew I hired more people to take over the daily chores. I now have 19 good employees and need another cook."

"I TRIED staying open 24 hours a day for about seven months one year. But I found that was not feasible because sometimes my employees, for various reasons, could not come to work."

"I really did very well as a cook, but as the business grew I hired more people to take over the daily chores. I now have 19 good employees and need another cook."

Recently, Brenda decided it was time to renovate and expand. To begin, she went next door and bought the former office space of a doctor's suite.

The work began three months ago with required knocking out walls to create one large dining room, with higher ceilings providing a greater sense of openness and a lighter atmosphere.

REMODELING since then included horizontal paneling installed on the lower part of the wall to a chair rail height. Above that is a homey, country-design valance and blue and white wall colors.

The wall colors of beige and blue complement the brown carpeting and wood tone furniture.

A 24-inch brick wall was removed between the former restaurant and the new section to make a triple door entrance to a wide hallway and the new dining hall.

ADDITIONAL PLANS for the interior will be installation of ceiling fans and display of artifacts collected by the owner throughout past years.

One of her prized collectibles is a white enameled cooking stove. Well maintained, it is reminiscent of the early 1900s era. The appliance was a necessity in everyone's kitchen in those days, being utilized for both cooking and heating purposes.

"I have been offered $1,000 for the stove but, right now, I want to keep it at the front door where it can be seen by my customers as they come in," she said.

JORDAN HAS LOYAL customers who have continued to patronize her business since opening day. "They are really great, and were very anxious for me to reopen as soon as possible while these changes were taking place," she said.

The new dining hall may be reserved by area civic and community organizations for luncheon and dinner meetings, Jordan said the first organization to reserve the hall was the Madison-Venice Rotary Club, which meets there every Wednesday at noon.

A NEW FACET of her service as a restaurateur is an "all you can eat" luncheon and dinner buffet.

The buffet is open on Sundays from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m., with a 10 percent discount offered to senior citizens.

The restaurant is open from 6 a.m. to 8:30 p.m. Monday through Friday, and each Saturday and Sunday it closes at 4 p.m.

Focus on play

The Metro East Institute of Lifetime Learning at SIUE will show a videotape Jan. 28 of the classic play "Midsummer Night's Dream." The videotape will be shown from 10:30 a.m. until noon in the Mississippi Room of the SIUE University Center. The fee for the series is $4.

Free tax advice slated by AARP twice each week

Free income tax advice will be available for Quad-City Area residents each Tuesday and Friday starting Tuesday, Feb. 3, through the Tax-Aide program of the American Association of Retired Persons (AARP).

Volunteer counselors trained by the Internal Revenue Service will operate the counseling service at the Jaycee Building, 2052 Edison Ave., each Tuesday and Friday from 9 a.m. to noon.

The service will extend from Feb. 3 to April 14.

Art Cozart, coordinator for the tax program, said the service is designed to help older persons understand income, tax forms and become familiar with special benefits available to older persons.

"Past experience has indicated that many older persons are unaware of special benefits they are entitled to claim. Some may not be required to file a return because of limited income."

"Persons using the service should bring with them copies of their previous year's federal and state returns and forms for the current tax year, including W-2s, and other relevant materials showing income for the year."

"Be sure to bring your property tax receipt, which is deductible on some Illinois returns."

"This service has been offered for 14 years in this area, and 18 years nationally," Cozart said.

Dr. Charles King Jr. ASK A CHIROPRACTOR

Q. When is the best time to stretch your muscles, before or after running?

A. Actually both. In order to properly prepare muscles for activity, it is recommended to undergo a mild general stretch before exercise and a more intense stretch following the activity. A common mistake we see is that individuals stretch hard before an event and do nothing afterwards. This can be a mistake for two reasons. First, vigorous stretching of cold muscles can cause strain like injuries to the muscles or sprain their tendons' attachments. Second, those who don't stretch following activity risk future injury because a muscle will shorten during its recovery period. Ideally, you should go through a brief warm up period consisting of a slow jog in order to increase the circulation to the muscles, followed by a 5-10 minute general stretch. Now, with the muscles adequately prepared, you can begin to exercise at training intensity. Following your training time, gradually taper your intensity and follow with a slow stretch routine.

Businesses in Madison plan for varied promotional events in 1987

By Donna Kimbro

MADISON — To promote the Madison business district and attract shoppers, Ray Edwards, president of the Madison Businessmen's Association, proposed community fund-raising to coincide with merchants' sales.

His suggestions included a Christmas in July event, a Saturday-only auction, a promotion for children, a clean-up project, sidewalk sales and a block party.

"We could contact people who are giving garage sales and provide them with an empty lot location where tables could be set up for them, but keep it within the business district. At the same time, merchants could offer a special type of sale to interest shoppers," he said.

A proposal to Mayor John Belloff, who was a guest, called for a lot near Fourth Street and Madison Avenue to be utilized for free parking for customers of business places in that vicinity.

Belloff asked the group to participate in the city's three-day

Ethnic Festival.

He said there is a possibility of street parking can be planned, adding that the city also hopes to attract additional businesses.

The mayor spoke on a scheduled water line extension south to the Gateway Midstate Truck Plaza area, where business expansions are expected.

The Illinois Department of Transportation is in the process of installing new electric traffic signals at Third, Sixth and 12th streets on Madison Avenue, Belloff said.

Favorable comments were made on two Christmas signs, erected at Third Street and McCarbidge Avenue and at Fourth and Madison.

Edwards and the mayor discussed the possibility of having two more holiday greeting signs placed at other entrances to the city in late 1987.

The organization decided to discontinue monthly meetings and instead to hold quarterly sessions. The next meeting was set for April 14 at Brenda's Restaurant in Madison.

Lilley adds offense; Warriors roll, 81-68

By Dave Whaley

Staff writer—Help is on the way for the Warriors' Big Three.

One reason given for the uneven play of Granite City earlier in the season was that the Warriors only had three players. Tim Hogan, Jamie Hogan and Tom Taylor were the big guns. Stop one of those three and you could handle them.

But don't look now. There is another bullet in the Granite City gun. The name is Greg Lilley, and his offensive talents were unveiled Friday night, much to the chagrin of the Alton Redbirds.

Lilley had 18 points to help balance out the Granite City attack, and the Warriors scooted to an 81-68 win in Southwestern Conference play.

Granite City raised its league-leading record to 3-0 and they are 11-4 overall, with three wins in a row. Alton fell to 1-4 in SWC play and 4-7 overall.

"It was the best game of Lilley's career by far," said coach Don Deterding. "I hope it's not the last good one I see from him, but it's definitely the best so far."

Let's not forget, however, Tim Hogan still led the way, pumping in 26 points and adding six assists as he ran up and down the court all night.

"Timmy was sucking for air a little towards the end," Deterding said. "But he was outstanding again."

Jamie Hogan had 18 points as well, while Taylor added 10 points and 13 rebounds.

"The Hogans and Taylor get most of the ink, and they deserve it," Deterding said. "But I tell you, Lilley was good and Eric Ryterski had an outstanding defensive game, particularly in the second half."

For a while, it looked like the game had the earmarks of the two remarkable shootouts these teams had last year. The Warriors shot 63 percent in the first half, but held only an eight-point (42-34) lead at intermission.

"I was very nervous before this game," Deterding said. "Alton always plays well against us, and we play well against them. I knew if they got hot, they could give us some trouble."

SCORING

GRANITE CITY: 18 26 15 24-61
ALTON: 14 20 9 24-68

GRANITE CITY: T. Hogan 26 (6 assists), Lilley 18, J. Hogan 18, Taylor 10 (13 rebounds), Ryterski 7, Veizer 7, P. St. P. 7, P. St. P. 7.

ALTON: Herd 24, Lavender 12, Dread 10, Twichell 7, Thomas 6, Vain 5, Middleton 2, Spraggins 2, P. St. P. 7, P. St. P. 7.

There was plenty of trouble in the first quarter when Alton took a 12-8 lead behind the shooting of guard Paul Dread and forward Tony Herd, who finished with 24 points. But Jamie Hogan tied the game after a Lilley steal, and Taylor gave the Warriors a lead by tapping in a missed Ryterski shot.

Tim Hogan really got things in gear in the second quarter, making all five of his shots and adding two free throws, but the Redbirds hung tough. And when Herd sunk a 25-footer at the buzzer, it was 42-34.

"Both teams did shoot the ball well in the first half," said Redbird coach Stan McAfoos. "But we turned the ball over too much, and when we turned it over, they scored. Our guards have been killing us all year."

Tim Hogan's steal and layup gave the Warriors a 10-point lead, and a pair of baskets by Lilley and one by Ryterski gave Granite City a 57-38 edge near the end of the quarter. Alton made only 4 of 14 shots in the period.

The Redbirds got no closer than 13 points in the fourth quarter, but Lilley again put the wraps on things, converting a tough three-point play off a pass from Tim Hogan. Then Tim's behind-the-back pass to Lilley for a layup made it 70-52.

With the win safely in hand, Deterding finally went to the bench to relieve the workhorse starting five. The game ended with David Veizer, Mike A. Wilkinson, Harry Briggs, John Van Buskirk and Raymond Scott on the court.

"I played for (Vergil) Fletcher," Deterding said. "And I feel like high school kids should be able to play for 32 minutes if they have to."

Taylor finished with a strong game inside even though he picked up three early fouls.

"That was our objective, to get to their bench," McAfoos said. "But after we got Taylor in some foul trouble, I don't think we went inside and got one shot."

The Redbirds' big man, 6-7 center Todd Thomas, was a non-factor with six points.

The Warriors seem to be getting things in gear in search of another conference title. After Saturday night's home game against East Moline, they host Belleville Althoff and Belleville East next Friday and Saturday.

And things will continue to fall in place — with the help of Greg Lilley.

Fight stops Venice contest

BROOKLYN — A bench-clearing fight erupted Friday night forcing the Venice-Lovejoy basketball game to be cancelled.

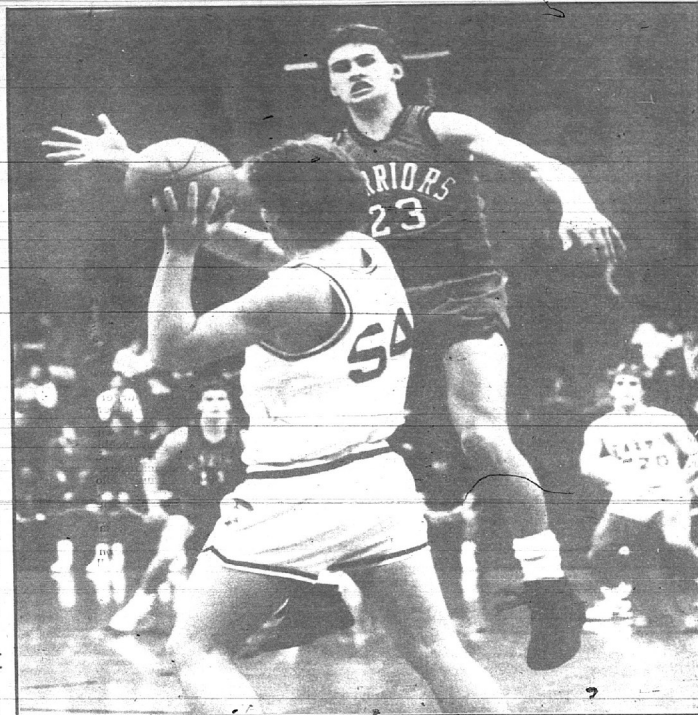

The incident occurred in the first quarter and prompted Venice coach Clinton Harris to pull his team from the floor. The Red Devils were leading 17-12 a when the trouble started.

Venice entered the game with a 15-1 record and a No. 2 ranking in the statewide polls. It is not known if the game will be rescheduled at a later date.

Things came to a head when Lovejoy's Terrell McKire drove to the basket and ran of Venice's Vincent Harris. Later both benches emptied and fans spilled on the court.
